

WheatStalk in Fairview still a go for August

By Alberta Farmer Staff

There won't be as many people and pandemic protocols will be in place, but the WheatStalk field tour is going ahead.

There are 40 spots available for each day of the Aug. 6-7 event in Fairview, which is hosted by the Alberta Wheat Commission and Peace Country Beef and Forage.

Participants will be able to have "a safe walk through various trial plots including pulses, barley and wheat as well as an intercropping demonstration," the groups said in a release.

Pre-registration is required. Other groups, such as Farming Smarter, are also having field days with a limited number of attendees.
